A View of Hope

Allow the illusion

A friend recently asked me how I helped myself live life more from my heart than my head— to lead from love versus fear.

First, I remember that all I see outside myself is an illusion! It's not that easy to explain because living from that awareness is a feeling and experience versus something concrete. If you're going to see the world as an illusion, as in, "There is no spoon," it would be pretty counter-intuitive to think words and the analyzer will ever offer a satisfactory explanation.

It begins with a feeling and desire to trust that still, quiet place within. It cannot be given to us from anyone, we need to cultivate it ourselves.

How can I differentiate the difference between creating from the Kingdom of Heaven within me, which is of eternal love and awareness, versus the temporary, ego-based value system born of the world.

Jesus taught he was in the world, but not of the world. All that was created from minds believing in separation from God is dissolving. We see ourselves living in a world birthed from fearful minds, but we are truly of Divinity, one with God and one another! Jesus fully embraced the truth that we are not separate from God.
'I and my Father are one,' was one of his most powerful mantras that helped him die to the lies of the world, and fall into the truth of love and the heart.

All else is temporary! As they say, you can't take any of it with you. So, what do we actually have that is ours?

One way of knowing our attachment to something is from ego is that we feel fear or shame around losing it. If our desire for it was created from the eternal truth of us, there would be no fear of losing it.
If you are having that wonderful thing as Spirit, what you are really having is the connection it allows you to have with that which is everything. There is no fear in losing it, because you are everything.
You would have the sadness of loss, but that is different from fear, shame, or feeling you are less than.

We already are Oneness, is has never been any different. Close your eyes and imagine someone you love, or a beloved pet who you wouldn't want to live without. Imagine looking into their eyes and really connecting and feeling what's true about that relationship. Feel it. Not the mind's chatter about the superficial ways that they are wonderful, but the true, eternal connection to that being, born from the awareness that there is no separation.

You are gazing into the eternal eyes of yourself, of that All. This is a feeling and experience of that which is Holy and Sacred. This is eternity. The experience of the truth that connects you to that loved one never, ever changes. Whether in a physical body or not, this is love without end.

Imagine having this same in-themoment connection with everything and everyone, not just the "special" people in your life. Imagine having the energetic

Words to Grow by ~ Mary Bell Nyman

Cookin' up some love!

The kitchen can be a magical place. Just pull a tray of cookies out of the oven and watch the room come to life! The sweet smell of baking cookies can conjure up some powerful emotions in our bodies. For many people, food is associated with love.

I have always loved to cook and often celebrate any occasion with a meal. For me the hubbub of the kitchen is a great way to get to know someone, to relax and bond with them. I love the aromas, the promise of a nourishing meal coming together and the excitement of waiting for it to arrive. Sharing it with those you love or those you are getting to know is a real treat.

Several years ago, my husband got on the cooking bandwagon. He is a great cook and does it totally differently from me. He measures everything out in little individual dishes and has everything ready before he starts. I love watching his mathematical precision and approach to cooking. I have cooked for so long that the recipes and amounts are in my head and I know exactly the taste I am trying to achieve. Pinches of this and that are replaced by teaspoons and his exact art is fun to watch. The proof is always in the pudding, and what he creates is really tasty.

We found the Test Kitchen, a group of cooks who take the recipe for any dish you can imagine and try many different ways of making it. What they come up with is the definitive or perfect way of making meatloaf, macaroni and cheese, onion soup, or green beans almandine, for example. Let me say, any recipe I have tried from this group has never failed to come out amazing. I love that. I have experimented as cooks will do, but just hate it when it falls short of what I am trying to achieve.

connection born of love, with your car, a flower, the stranger walking down the street. The connection may not seem as strong, some people and situations are more in the lie of separation than others, which means there is less love present. But love is still there, and you can choose to see it.

All is a gift. Life happens FOR you not TO you. We have the ability to see all situations from our heart, versus the fear-based ego.

Mother Earth also helps me stay in my heart and lead from Spirit. Earth is not of the fear-based world. Mother Earth is an amazing being, our Eden. She teaches us how to make the way easy and without effort. The earth, stars and solar system are our teachers. They teach us about balance, love, unity, beauty, synchronicity and abundance.

Nature follows a hum that cannot be seen or touched. It is felt and allowed.

There is no lie of separation from God in nature.

And third, to let the illusion dissolve, stop having to DO so much. Release the thinking that says you have to DO things to get to God. The kingdom is within you. You are of Divinity. You are the enlightenment. Choose to do things like meditation, yoga, a cooking class or a road trip because you see value in the experience as God, as the loving being you already are. Not because they will get you anywhere.

We are fine-tuning our beingness so we can cultivate and give birth to Spirit-based intention in all that we do. We are each doing this in your own way, at our own pace. I don't do it perfectly. But I release self punishment and judgment, which only lead us away from love and closer to the fear.

The world is a human-made creation, a hologram born of fearful minds. Spirit uses this illusion we have created as a tool for our awakening.

In the process we are loving all back into wholeness. Love your neighbor as yourself, love your enemy, forgive and allow. It's all been taught by many teachers, but there's only one ending—which is in you right now. The journey ends at the beginning. Have the meaning within you now. You are Home.

You are not of the world out there, you are of the still, quiet, peacefulness of the Kingdom of Heaven within you. Be the loving being of you, compassionate, gentle, funny, emotional, creative—whatever expression you are of God in the moment. Walk through the doorway away from the fear and right into your heart. You are here for one reason, to know thyself and return home to love.

May you feel blessed and supported on your path!♥

A GUY'S VIEW: MARCHING CONFIDENTLY INTO THE UNKNOWN

by Brooks Witter

As a therapist, I often work with people who claim that they want more self-confidence to do new things. This position is quite reasonable in the sense that it will likely be much easier to do something if you feel that your chances of doing it well, correctly, perfectly, etc are very high, and your chances of messing things up completely and looking like a buffoon are low. The shadow side of this position is that until you know how to do something well enough to have "confidence" you may never do it. This then begs the question, how will we ever learn something new?

The word "confidence" is of Latin origin and is composed of the root words "con", meaning with, and "fides", meaning faith, loyalty or fidelity. So, if we break down the word confidence, we could put forward the radical proposition that to act with confidence may not necessarily entail a feeling of belief in our ultimate success, but rather that it is acting in congruence with—with fidelity to—our own experience and values, regardless of the eventual outcome. To act with confidence in this sense means moving forward with our experience as it is, staying loyal to our values and vision of our best life. Confidence then contains insecurity, doubt, fear, and anxiety, in that with each meaningful step towards what we care about, we will likely experience echoes of the painful prospect of loss failure and frustration. Yet, confidence tells us, we continue towards these values because doing so matters deeply to our being and feeds our spirit.

So begin something new with confidence. Despite the fears, uncertainty and doubts, you are doing so to feed the longing in your heart, head and soul to expand, grow, and develop into an evolving you.

Practice: Sit and allow your eyes to close and your awareness to settle on the experience of being in this moment. Breathe, allowing each exhale to relax you into the present moment. Ask yourself: "What can I do in the next week that would be in service of my personal or professional growth?" What shows up? What does this tell you about your values in this area? Are you willing to move in that direction even with the fear, uncertainty, or doubt? Your confidence lay in remaining faithful to your experience, and requires simply a loyalty to doing what matters, regardless of the outcome.

Brooks spends his days playing the game of life with gusto. A graduate of the Contemplative Psychotherapy program at Naropa University, Brooks is a therapist in Boulder helping people unhook from habitual patterns that no longer serve their highest good. He takes classes at PHC and is currently inspired by the singular habits of the honey badger. Contact Brooks or follow his blog, go to: www.luminouscounseling.com.

Even if your mom or family wasn't featured in the Good House-Keeping magazine for culinary dishes, you can still find an easy way to make the holidays one of celebrating and sharing your gifts. One of the best gifts I have ever received was the gift of soup, once a month for a year. My neighbor would pop by and voila, dinner for whenever I needed it. I just loved her for her gift; you could taste the love in every bite.

Find your own unique way of celebrating this holiday. Even if you aren't the best cook in the world, there are some great easy ways to cook and make treats for you and your family. There is just something magical when people come together over food. I always look forward to the holidays and the opportunities to celebrate the love that is present. If it hasn't been that way for you, decide to change it and start over.

If cooking just isn't your thing, then dress up and go out for the holidays. Let a local chef prepare a feast for you and celebrate all the joy in your life. Now, more than ever, is a time to be grateful for all we are and all we have. Make your holidays one to remember.

Wishing all of you a had wonderful Thanksgiving and the Merriest Christmas ever. Before we know it the New Year will be here, but that is another story for the next issue! Namaste.♥

Creed of the Church of Inner Light

Psychic Horizons Center is a spiritual sanctuary where you can discover your own truths and obtain your spiritual freedom this lifetime. "What if a man gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" asks Jesus. To a mystic with eyes turned inward to infinity and cosmic consciousness, his words have great meaning. Obtaining a one-to-one contact between the cosmic and a living soul, which flames quietly, brings a lifetime of contentment and the realization that nothing in this world is worth exchanging for that attainment.

- from the Creed of the Church of Inner Light.

This newsletter is lovingly dedicated to Very Rt. Rev. Lewis Bostwick, founder, Church of Divine Man.

"When you stop
judging and see
yourself in others,
you can't help but love the uniqueness of everyone." —Wayne Dyer
